The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 0.41% Thursday to 10,797.14. The Dow is now down over 5% from its record close in January, when the index hit a milestone for the first time since 2013. Over the past week, the Dow is down 6.6% and the S&P 500 is down 5.7%. Here are five stocks in The Dow to watch today. Twitter Twitter is responsible for a good portion of the declines in the Dow this week. A combination of worries about the company's future growth and high-profile issues at the company has caused it to fall more than $70 a share in recent trading. The index's biggest weighting is technology, which is down a disappointing 5.0% this week. Shares of the company were already down 2.6% Thursday. Twitter is a tightly held company, however, and investors should be cautious that any new news about the company could cause its stock price to jump. Tiffany
